FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

New Cane Could Create a Whole New Generation of "Trekkiies"

Buena Park, CA - October 25, 2010 - As our senior population grows, even the elderly are becoming more health conscious and determined to preserve their vitality. A new walking cane is changing the way they do!

SkyMed, a company that has recently established itself in southern California, is proving to be a home medical equipment innovator, creating new products for the industry that stretch the envelope with value-added features and new takes on traditional products.

One such product is the TrekCane, a walking cane that combines strength and practicality with a multi-function fitness monitor. The TrekCane can monitor number of steps, walking times, distance covered, and calories burned by the user. The monitor is integrated into a high quality, adjustable anodized aluminum cane that includes a replaceable comfort grip, 18mm rubber tip, and a strap that can be removed at the option of the user. As with all Sky Med products, it also includes a limited lifetime warranty.

Seniors wanting to maintain an active lifestyle will love this cane, an easy way to incorporate a moderate fitness regimen into daily life, and caregivers, physical therapists and fitness advisors will find it a valuable tool for guiding patients and parents in adopting a more active lifestyle. TrekCane makes it easy to set goals, and even better, attain them!

Emma Lai, National Sales Manager at Sky Med, heads up a talented, diverse and energetic team dedicated to using their extensive experience to serve the HME industry and the end users it serves. Said Lai, "Everyone's needs are different, whether it's an industry client or their customer. Both those needs are changing all the time. Coming up with products like the TrekCane make our work more rewarding!"

Sky Med products and innovations can be seen at Medtrade Atlanta, November 16-18, 2010, at booth 2526.
